

Do Elephants dream of Eclectic sheep?

Do Elephants Dream of Eclectic Sheep? Wander inside the head and bedroom of a sleeping elephant. The worlds of the large and small, the dreamers and the dreamt appear and vanish as the elephant lies in bed one night. Tabletop puppetry, object manipulation, hand and rod puppets, music, and the head of a large elephant bring this collage of puppet scenes together.

Creators Note:

Do Elephants Dream of Eclectic Sheep? takes some inspiration from The Velveteen Rabbit and Philip K. Dick's Do Androids Dream of Electric Sheep? In each, the characters maintain hope, empathy, and look to connect to something that's "real", even in bleak circumstances.

Visually, a lot of different imagery and characters are represented, and we are still attempting to synthesize them into a cohesive production.

Special thanks to Mark Sitko and Gordon Scott.

This show is dedicated to the dear memory of Jerrold Solomon.

October 28, 2011

7:30pm

"Do Elephant's Dream of Eclectic Sheep?"

Written and directed by Amanda Maddock

Cast:

Elizabeth Leonard

Amanda Maddock

Paul McGinnis

Kirk Murphy

Music by:

Bradley Kemp

Ensemble coaching and direction by:

Ulysses Jones.

Featuring the music of:

Bjork

Andrew Bird

Astrud Gilberto

Pearl and the Beard,

Bradley Kemp

Puppetry at the Carriage House

Thank you for coming, we're excited to have featured three artists this Fall.

P.A.T.C.H. Artist-in-Residence work-in-progress presentations will resume in January.